Professor Robert L. Tsai will put efforts to subvert the 2020 presidential election and ongoing voter restrictions into historical context. He will also identify the most pressing threats to American constitutional democracy, including perhaps the most serious problem: a failure of political imagination.

ROBERT L. TSAI
Professor of Law
Boston University School of Law

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 2021
Noon-1 p.m.

ATTEND IN-PERSON
UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH
SCHOOL OF LAW
Barco Law Building • ALCOA Room, 2nd Floor
3900 Forbes Avenue, Pittsburgh, PA 15260
Register here to attend in person.

ATTEND VIRTUALLY, VIA ZOOM
Register here to attend virtually.

Participants must register to attend, whether attending in-person or virtually. You will receive details on accessing the event via email.

This program has been approved by PACLE for 1.0 hour of substantive credit. There will be a $30 fee for processing CLE credit for this event. Attendance is free to those not seeking CLE. Readings for CLE attendees are available here.

ROBERT L. TSAI is a professor of law at Boston University School of Law, where he teaches courses in constitutional law, presidential leadership, and individual rights. Tsai is the author of three books: Practical Equality: Forging Justice in a Divided Nation (W.W. Norton 2019); America’s Forgotten Constitutions: Defiant Visions of Power and Community (Harvard 2014); and Eloquence and Reason: Creating a First Amendment Culture (Yale 2008).

Tsai has authored numerous law review articles and peer-edited essays. His scholarship has been featured by the New Yorker, NPR, and Harvard Law Review. He has served as a legal commentator on Meet the Press and MSNBC. His writings have appeared in the Washington Post, Politico, and The Boston Globe.

Tsai is a graduate of Yale Law School and the University of California, Los Angeles. After law school, he clerked for Denny Chin, US District Court, SDNY, and Hugh Bownes, US Court of Appeals, First Circuit.